

23-storey tower to be built in Shoreditch next to St Leonard's Church!

It will destroy the unique, historic character of the area.

It will blight the lives of the local residents by blocking out sunlight, increasing noise, pollution and traffic.

The area is already high density and lacking green space but this is HIGH DENSITY GONE MAD!

The East End is fed up with buildings going up on every available space!

Why are the developers building nearly 400 bedsits and one-bedroom flats in an area that desperately needs family housing?

We need housing that caters for those in most need and is fairly allocated: it should be available to families on Tower Hamlets waiting list.

Building high and cheap did not work in the past and is not going to work now.

We want the developers to make the scheme:

- smaller
- greener
- considerate to local needs and problems
